Working in the Jobs Module

First thing you should do is ask the client if they want to allow external employers to be able to post jobs on the client's site. Looks like this on the front:

If they say NO then you will need to turn it off here:

Change that to FALSE and Save it.

Then you will need to fix the header...because it references things that don't exist anymore.

Ask them what they want and put it in there. If they need time to come up with different verbiage...then give them your email address and do it later. You're awesome like that!

(There's more...keep scrolling)

Also, you need to set up the tool kit...aka this thing:
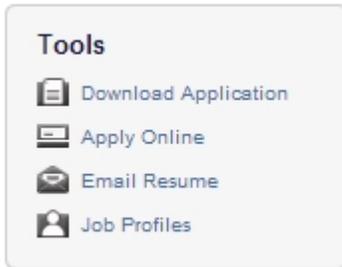

You can find all of this in the parameters as well:

IsDownloadApplicationAvailable	True	True Save	Set this to true if download application needs to be displayed on the tools section of side bar. By default its False.
DownloadApplicationActionLink	http://cp-stcity.civicplus.com/support/application.pdf	http://cp-stcity.civicplus.c Save	Set the action link for download application text that is displayed on the tools section of side bar.
IsApplyOnlineAvailable	True	True Save	Set this to true if apply online needs to be displayed on the tools section of side bar. By default its False.
ApplyOnlineActionLink	/application.aspx	/application.aspx Save	Set the action link for apply online text that is displayed on the tools section of side bar.
IsJobProfilesAvailable	True	True Save	Set this to true if job profiles needs to be displayed on the tools section of side bar. By default its False.
JobProfilesActionLink	/application.aspx	/application.aspx Save	Set the action link for job profiles text that is displayed on the tools section of side bar.
IsEmailResumeAvailable	True	True Save	Set this to true if email resume needs to be displayed on the tools section of side bar. By default its False.

You can even create custom ones, and link them to whatever you like...errrr...they like.

Note: For the Download Application, you should link that to the actual app in the Doc Center. Remind them that if they ever need to change it, they can replace it in the Doc Center without changing the link...BUT...if they ever do mess it up...they can always contact support for help.

That is all!
